News Notes Taken From Other Papers

News from Entire County in Condensed Form

A deal was consummated this week whereby P. E. Schlettman, editor of The Waukegan Leader, becomes the owner and publisher of The Grayslake Times.

The newspapers will be published in the respective offices, and there will be no change in the policy of either publication. The Leader will be in charge of Mrs. Schlettman, and Mr. Schlettman will take charge of The Times, dividing his time between the two offices.

Peter W. Newhouse, who has been publishing The Times for the past 13 years, has been ill the past winter, and believing that a rest would be beneficial, decided to dispose of The Times.

J. J. Doerschuk, Lake County farm bureau advisor, launched a campaign for an assistant to spend his entire time organizing the boys and girls of the farm into clubs.

Such a department would cost between $3,909 and $3,509, according to his letter to the Chamber of Commerce.

A man of this type would organize pig clubs, calf clubs, corn clubs, and keep up enthusiasm in sewing, housework, and community enterprises.

The adviser asks for donations of $209 per annum from the Chamber of Commerce, Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis to be paid on a semiannual basis, or a $400 annual gift in the aggregate.

The Sears Roebuck Agricultural foundation has made a promise of $1000 for the first year pending results from the county gifts. Mr. S. Doerschuk writes. The University of Illinois is also expected to contribute $500.00.

The Eisenberg Manufacturing company may leave Waukegan. That warning was sounded last Thursday by persons close into the cares of the manufacturer who has been confronted with a strike of garment workers since he came here a month ago. According to this information Eisenberg is planning to take his concern to Freeport.

Lynn Vincent, of Gurnee, was arrested last Thursday on a charge of disorderly conduct on a warrant sworn out before Justice Harvey Coulson by Pearl Vincent, his wife of the defendant. She charges that their domestic troubles exceeded the point of argument. Vincent was taken into custody recently on the same charge. Vincent was remanded to the custody of the sheriff in default of bonds.

Announcement that two separate companies are to operate motor buses between Waukegan and Fox Lake this year rises the question as to whether or not spirited competition will result in cheaper fares.

Some time ago the North Shore Line announced its intention of operating buses west from Waukegan through the lakes region. Permission to operate was granted by the Illinois Commerce commission. Buses to be used in this service are being built at the present time and will be put into operation in the near future.

Now the Fox Lake Bus Line of Fox Lake has incorporated to run buses between Waukegan and North Chicago. The Illinois Commerce commission has been asked to grant this company a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate buses but this permission has not yet been granted and there is a bare possibility that it will not be permitted to run owing to the fact that one company already has been granted the right. If the two lines do operate it appears quite certain that there will be a battle on for business and Waukegan and Fox Lake residents may profit by it. At any rate the buses between Waukegan and Fox Lake are sure to be patronized liberally as it will solve a means of transportation that long has been denied those not possessing cars.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, May 19, 1904

Chase Webb was a Chicago passenger Tuesday morning.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stiekles, on Saturday, May 14, a boy, R. D. Emmons and Ira Soule are building cement walks in front of their property on Lake avenue.

Ira Soule of Sioux Falls, S. D., moved with his family to Antioch last week and is occupying his house on Lake avenue, recently purchased of T. A. Emmons.

Mrs. W. F. Ziegler visited with friends in Waukegan this week.

Hon. Albert N. Tiffany is the way we can write it after next November.

At the senatorial convention held at Woodstock last Monday, A. N. Tiffany was the unanimous choice of the convention of the eighth senatorial district and Shurtliff, of McHenry, and Hovey of Boone, are the candidates for representative. This is a strong ticket with no chance of it being defeated.

Theo. Vogel, of Waukegan, is alleged to have engaged in a heated argument with Constable Martin Lux of Wadsworth Saturday, when the latter accosted him concerning the fact that Vogel was driving a car without a license, and it is charged that the Waukegan man struck the officer in the face with his fist. The trouble caused considerable excitement and a call was put in for the sheriff's office.

Vogel was fined $10 and costs by Justice Louis K. Ekstrand today.

To Revise Old Ordinance on Pool Rooms

The board at their meeting Thursday evening. Heard a plea by Frank Hunt for restraint from enforcing the present poolroom ordinance. Mr. Hunt informed the board that he had already made an investment in property on main street and plans were all completed for an up-to-date bowling alley and poolroom and that the enforcement of the present law would not permit him to operate at a profit.

Mr. Aht was asked for his views on the subject from the standpoint of the business men and stated that, although sentiment in part has been against this class of business, present indications are that this form of recreation is being looked on now from a different viewpoint. He states that even churches were now installing bowling alleys and pool tables for diversion for the young men.

Trustee Osmond spoke in favor of the change of the hours to enable a profitable business hours. He stated that if we did not allow the operation of the poolroom here, that our young men would find other means of amusement or go to other towns to poolrooms. Mr. Hunt assured the board that he would strictly abide by any ordinance that the village drew up that would give him longer hours of operation and allow him to operate Sundays.

The question of operating Sunday morning during church hours were brought up, and Mr. Hunt agreed that the establishment should be closed during this period.

Mr. Dunn made the motion that the village draw up a new ordinance lengthening the hours of operation of poolrooms until 12 o'clock week days, and from 12:30 p. m. until midnight on Sundays. The motion was seconded and passed and Mr. Ruyard was instructed to draw up such an ordinance.

The Antioch Woman's club closed its year Monday with a reception for the new officers.

The new president, Mrs. Mathews, gave a short address on the retiring president, Mrs. John Darby, after which Mrs. William Hillebrand presented Mrs. Darby with a beautiful leather hat box. Mrs. Darby's response to the presentation speech was very inspiring and she thanked the members for their beautiful gift and for the cooperation she had received from the members while president.

Mrs. Darby has made a very fine president and her untiring efforts has done much to advance the activities of the club socially and civically. Her help and council will be greatly missed the next year.

NEW MAJESTIC THEATRE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Work on the new Majestic theatre is rapidly progressing and it is expected to be ready within the next few weeks. The floors and stage are finished and the largest job now will be the interior decorations and the work in the lobby.

Around Our Town

"Roxie" Feller appeared a 32-lb. carp in the creek near the Antioch Mill Saturday afternoon. 32 pounds of fish is a whole lot, but a 32-lb. carp doesn't mean a thing.

Many villagers are grumbling this week about having to chase way down to the new postoffice after their mail. It must be they are all wrong, as Walter Chinn says the new postoffice is ideally located.

Last week the U. S. Tire Co., "ran" an ad for the Main garage. Archie came running in the next morning after publication and said "How come, who pays for that big tire ad." When told the money would come from N. Y. City, Archie replied "My Gawd, that's the first time I ever got something for nothing."

A candy manufacturer is roaming around looking for a location. One of our property owners gave him a good proposition.

Otto Klass says he is going to sell some more of those Indian blankets he sold last year at the Firemen's dance. Priced anywhere from 10c up—mostly up!

Have you heard the latest—Samuel Insull is going to extend the Chicago Elevated to Libertyville. That's why Sam is buying up Libertyville.

Why not finish the job and extend it to a good country.

The board's decision to straighten out its debt looks as if the paying of Depot street is cooked for a while, unless some financial genius can show us a way out.

The county bought a perfectly good stone crusher and a man was sent out to assemble it. Last Friday he received word to go to N. Carolina on a job. Wonder what's the grand idea. Probably the county's money is no good.

Hats off to the Woman's club! The signs that they have placed at the extremities of town sure do look nifty.

The committee on publicity of the A. B. C. has the project pretty well in hand, and it looks as if some advertising might be started next week. If you are not in on this, see Ed Dressel, chairman of the committee, or John Woodhead at the News office.

S. M. Wallace tells this: Prominent named young man at door of Crystal Theater K. K. K. meet—I want to get in.

Hooded man—Have you a ticket? Young man—No.

Klanman—Well, you know we don't allow members of your race in here.

Young man—I know. But I don't want to hear the lecture. I want to see the man who buys all the white sheets.

J. Wilson McGee spent two perfectly good days searching the town over for the flags bought for road opening day. Mac appealed to the News office to help him out. After the editor raked his brains and tore his hair over a story that would bring results, in walks Mac just as we were going to press with the information that he had the flags up at the house all the time.

Our Invitation

Present this clipping for admission at the Crystal Theater, on Wednesday evening, May 28.

The Antioch News invites as its guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cox, to witness Wednesday's presentation "The Grail" at the Crystal theater.

Each Wednesday evening The Antioch News will present tickets to the names announced in the above space. Watch for your name to appear, then clip out the notice and present it at the Crystal Theater. It will be your admission ticket. Read the announcement next week, as you probably may be next.

Closing Exercises at High School Begin May 29

The closing exercises of the high school will begin Thursday evening, May 29, with the annual reception to patrons at which time there will also be an exhibit of the work done during the year. The date was formerly planned for May 30, but it has been thought best to have it on the preceding day in order not to interfere with the Memorial day functions. The exhibits will be well worth while seeing. It is planned to take this display to the county fair and possibly to the state fair.

On Sunday evening, June 1, will be held the Baccalaureate services. As in former years, this is to be a combined service participated in by all of the churches in the district. Rev. Rice of the Millburn Congregational church will be the speaker of the evening. The meeting will be held in the high school auditorium.

The commencement exercises will be on Thursday, June 5. It is planned to have Dr. Miller of the University of Wisconsin to deliver the address of the evening.

First Baseball Game Against Libertyville

Antioch's baseball team will play its first game of the season at the Antioch baseball park next Sunday, May 25, with Libertyville as opponents.

"Bob" Wilton and "Red" Fields will compose the Antioch battery. In a practice game last Sunday Antioch defeated Pikeville. In this game most of the players to represent Antioch this year were chosen. Among the players picked for this Sunday's game were Ed Vos, Barthel, Bertie Fields, Willard Chinn, Flala, Scott, Wilton, and "Red" Fields. Several other prospective players were at last Sunday's game and will be given further tryouts against Libertyville. It is expected that the games this season will attract larger crowds than last year, as the local fans have always liked to see their home boys perform.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

ALFALFA AUTO TOUR FOR THURSDAY, MAY 29

After the click-clack of the corn planters have finished their job and before corn cultivation and alfalfa cutting, the Farm Bureau has arranged an alfalfa tour. Prof. Rhode of the dairy department of the University of Illinois and J. C. Hockle, manager of the crops department will be with us on this tour. We are very fortunate in having both these well known men with us. Mr. Rhode to discuss the feeding of alfalfa with farm grown rations and Mr. Hockle to handle numerous questions regarding the growing, varieties, cuttings, soil, etc. of this, our most valuable crop. We can make this a big alfalfa demonstration for Lake County. It will do us all good.

Tour starts at 10 a. m. at W. C. Dillon's farm south of Volo. From there we go to Will Brook's farm at Slocum Lake, where, after a demonstration on fertilizer for alfalfa, we will eat lunch on the beautiful grounds near the lake. Bring your picnic lunch. After that we go to Mr. Flank's farm north of Waukegan, Lee Huson's at Volo, and possibly one or two more stops at A. B. Combs and another place. Plan now to come and enjoy the day. You will find it profitable. We have the biggest alfalfa acreage of any Illinois county, so let's celebrate.

POSTOFFICE MOVES INTO GRICE BUILDING SUNDAY

The Antioch postoffice moved into their new quarters in the recently remodeled Grice building on Main street on Sunday. The new building is much larger and will give the local postal workers more space to handle the mails.

The new Soo Line schedule will go into effect June 1 as follows:

Train No. 10 will be put on and will leave Antioch at 5:55 a. m., arriving in Chicago 7:45. Train No. 1 will stop, leaving Antioch at 7:40, arriving in Chicago 9:15. In the evening, train No. 9 will leave Chicago 4:15, arriving at Antioch 6:07. No. 17, leaving Chicago at 5:30 will also stop at Antioch.

Village Board Pass $10,000 Bond Issue

Amount will Cover Town's Indebtedness Secured By Injunctions

The board of trustees heard petition from a representative of the Public Service company Thursday night. A total of the amount owed by the village was given. It showed that the village's indebtedness to the Public Service company amounted to approximately $1,600.

The question of this and the other two judgments that have been placed against the village, viz: John Dupre $3012.99 and L. Felter $747.47 was referred to the village attorney, E. M. Runyard. Mr. Runyard's opinion was that the best and most honorably thing for the board to do was to raise this money by bond issue.

Mr. Runyard went on to cite that Antioch like many other towns had been deprived of a source of revenue when the dram shops were closed and that taxation had not been adjusted to hardly meet this discrepancy. And with the Brownell judgment being paid off at this particular time naturally brought about the present situation. He showed that conditions were greatly improved in meeting fixed charges and that with the increase of valuation of Antioch property to $393,283, that under ordinary circumstances Antioch will not experience another instance of this kind.

The board discussed the matter for a few minutes and then decided to put the matter of the bond issue in the hands of the finance committee for fixturs of amount of the issue and denomination of bonds, etc., and to be brought up at the next board meeting.

The finance committee met Tuesday night and after being informed by Mr. Runyard of the approximate cost for issuing these bonds, interest charges and collection charges, decided to place the amount at $10,000. Plans call for bonds in denominations of $100 and $200 to be retired in ten years.

The village bond indebtedness now shows $4,000 outstanding on the village hall and water tower. With the passing of a $10,000 bond issue this will bring the total to $14,000. Antioch's new assessment shows $303,000. The village is allowed by law to issue bonds to the extent of 5 per cent of this amount, which would be approximately $15,000.

DOWELL HOME COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FIRE FRIDAY

Fire, breaking out around the chimney, gutted the home of George Dowell Friday morning. Neighbors seeing the flames, called the Wilnot fire department, and the efficient work done by these volunteers, in all probability saved a good part of the town from being wiped out. A very strong wind was blowing, but the flames were confined to the Dowell home.

Silver Lake's fire department made a record run and the villagers are very grateful for their assistance.

The household goods were damaged in part, but many articles were removed uninjured. Both the house and furnishings were fully covered by insurance.

The family moved at once into the Hegeman flat next door to their burned home. Mr. Dowell will commence work on a new home as soon as the wreckage can be cleared away.

Zen of The Y.D.
A NOVEL OF THE FOOTHILLS
by Robert Stead

AUTHOR OF "THE COW PUNCHER," "THE HOMESTEADERS," "NEIGHBORS," ETC.

COPYRIGHT BY ROBERT STEAD
SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Transley's hay-cutting outfit, after stacking 2,000 tons, is on its way to the big Y.D. ranch headquarters. Transley is a master of men and circumstances. Linder, foreman, is substantial, but not self-assertive. George Drak, one of the men, is an irresponsible chap who proposes to every woman he meets. Transley and Linder dine with Y.D. and his wife and daughter. Zen, Transley's resolve to marry Zen, Y.D. instructs Transley to cut the South Y.D. "spite" of an "high water" and a fellow named Landson.

CHAPTER II.—Drak proposes to Zen and is nearly rebuffed. Transley pitches camp on the South Y.D. and Linder's outfit cutting hay. Donelson Grant, Landson's manager, notifies Transley that he is working under a lease from the legal owners and warns Transley off. All of which means war.

CHAPTER III.—Y.D. and Zen ride to the South Y.D. Zen is a natural vanguard, yet hater-broke and ripe for mating. Y.D. has taken a liking to Transley. Zen holds Transley off and encourages Linder.

CHAPTER IV.—Zen enjoys the prospect of a race between Transley and Linder for her favor, but secretly laughs at both. She has another and more serious encounter with Drak. Y.D. mowing machines are ruined by iron stakes set in the grass. Zen prevents open war with Landson. Transley half-way proposes and is turned off. Drak resolves to burn out the rival outfit.

CHAPTER V.—Fire blazes up in the Landson stacks. The Y.D. outfit hastens to aid the enemy. Zen rides off alone to help. The wind changes and the Y.D. people now have to fight the prairie fire. Zen rides into the river to escape flames. Drak tries to abduct her. She draws him or this she has. Grant overtakes her. In trying to ride through fire Zen is thrown and knocked senseless.

When Zen reached the water the smoke was hanging low on it, and she drove her horse well in. Then she swung down the stream, believing that by making a detour in this way she could pass the wedge of fire that had interrupted her and get back on to the trail leading to Landson's. She was coughing with the smoke, but rode on in the confidence that presently it would lift.

It did. A whip of wind raised it like a strong arm throwing off a blanket. She sat up and breathed freely. The hot sun shone through rifts in the canopy of smoke; the blue sky looked down serene and unmoved by this outburst of the elements. Then as Zen brought her eyes back to the water she saw a man on horseback not forty yards ahead. Her first thought was that it must be one of the fire fighters, driven like herself to safety, but a second glance revealed George Drak. For a moment she had an impulse to wheel and ride out, but even as she smothered that impulse a thrice of color rose in her cheeks that she should for a moment have entertained it. To let George Drak think she was afraid of him would be utmost humiliation.

She continued straight down the stream, but he had already seen her and was headed her way. In the excitement of what he had just done Drak was less responsible than usual.

"Hello, Zen," he said. "Mighty decent of you to ride down an meet me like this. Mighty decent, Zen?"

"I didn't ride down to meet you, Drak, and you know it. Keep out of the way or I'll use a whip on you!"

"Oh, how naughty! Y.D. all over! Never mind, dear, I like you all the better for that. Who wants a tame horse? An' as for coming down to meet me, what's the odds, so long as we've met?"

He had turned his horse and blocked the way in front of her. When Zen's horse came within reach Drak caught him by the bridle.

"Will you let go?" the girl said, speaking as calmly as she could, but in a white passion. "Will you let go of that bridle, or shall I make you?"

He looked her full in the face. "Gud, but you're a stunner!" he exclaimed. "I'm glad we met—here."

She brought her whip with a blinding cut around the wrist that held her bridle. Drak wheeled, but did not let go.

"Jus' for that, young Y.D.," he hissed, "jus' for that we drop all formalities, so to speak."

With a dexterous spurring he brought his horse alongside and threw an arm about Zen before she could beat him off. She used her whip at short range on his face, but had not arm-room in which to land a blow. They were straggled in water, and as they struggled the horses edged in deeper still. Finding that she could not beat Drak off Zen clutched her saddle and drove the spurs into her horse. At this unaccustomed treatment he plunged wildly forward, but Drak's grip on her was too strong to be broken. The maneuver had, however, the effect of unhorsing Drak. He fell in the water, but kept his grip on Zen. With his free hand he still had the reins of his own horse, and he managed also to get hold of hers. Although her horse was plunging and jumping, Drak's strong grip on his rein kept him from breaking away.

"You fight well, Zen, d-n you—"

"All set here, ma'am," he answered. "All set an' safe. But they'll never hold the main fire; it'll go up the valley h-l-scootin', beggin' your pardon, ma'am."

"Anyone live up the valley?"

"There is. There's the Lints—squatters about six miles up—it was from them I got the cream an' fresh eggs you was good enough to notice."

"You fight well, Zen, d-n you—" ma'am. An' there's no men folks about; jus' Mrs. Lint an' a young herd of little Lints; least, that's all was there jus' night."

"I must go up," said Zen, with instant decision. "I can get there before the fire, and as the Lints are evidently" farmers there will be some plowed land, or at least a plow with which to run a furrow so that we can start a back-fire. Direct me."

Tompkins directed her as to the way, and, leaving a word of explanation to be passed on to her father, she was off. A half hour's hard riding brought her to Lint's, but she found that this careful settler had made full provision against such a contingency as was now come about. The farm buildings, implements, stables, everything was surrounded, not by a fire-guard, but by a broad plowed field. Mrs. Lint, however, was little less thankful for Zen's interest than she would have been had their little staidling been in danger. She pressed Zen to wait and have at least a cup of tea, and the girl, knowing that she could be of little or no service down the valley, allowed herself to be persuaded. In this little harbor of quiet her mind began to arrange the day's events. The tragic happening at the river was as yet too recent to appear real; but it had not been for the touch of her wet clothing Zen could have thought it all an unhappy dream of days ago. She reflected that neither Tompkins nor Mrs. Lint had commented upon her appearance. The hot sun had soon dried her outer apparel, and her general disheveled condition was not remarkable on such a day as this.

The wind had gone down as the afternoon waned, and the fire was working up the valley leisurely when Zen sat out on her return trip. A couple of miles from the Lint homestead she met its advance guard. It was evening now; the sun shone dull red through the hanked clouds of smoke rising against the mountains to the west; the flames danced and flickered, advanced and receded, sprang up and died down again, along mile after mile of front. It was a beautiful thing to behold, and Zen drew her horse to a stop on a hill-top to take in the grandeur of the scene. Near at hand trodding flames were working about the base of the hill, and far down the valley and over the foothills the flanks of the fire stretched like lines of impenetrable infantry in single file.

Suddenly she heard the sound of hoofs, and a rider drew up at her side. She supposed him one of Transley's men, but could not recall having seen him in the camp. He sat his horse with an ease and grace that her eye was quick to appraise; he removed his broad felt hat before he spoke; and he did not call her "ma'am."

"Lardon me—I believe I am speaking to Y.D.'s daughter?" he asked, and before waiting for a reply hastened to introduce himself. "My name is Denelson Grant, foreman on the Landson ranch."

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "I thought—I thought you were one of Mr. Transley's men." Then, with a quick sense of the barrier between them, she added, "I hope you don't think that I—that we—had anything to do with this?" She indicated the ruined valley with her hand.

"No more than I had to do with those cowardly stalks," he answered. "Neither of us understand just now, but can we take that much for granted?"

There was something about him that rather appealed to her. "I think we can," she said, simply.

For a moment they watched the kaleidoscopic scene below them. "It may help you to understand," she continued, "if I say that I was riding down to see if I could be of some use to Mrs. Landson when the wind changed, and I saw I would be more likely to be needed here."

"And it may help you to understand," he said, "if I say that as soon as I saw the danger to the Landson ranch was over I rode up to Transley's camp. Only the cook was there, and he told me of your having set out to help Mrs. Lint, so I followed up. Fortunately the fire had lost its punch; it will probably go out through the night."

There was a short silence, in which she began to realize her peculiar position. This man was the rival of Transley and Linder in the business of hay-cutting in the valley. He was the foreman of the Landson crowd—Landson, against whom her father had been voicing something very near to murder threats not many hours ago. Had she met him before the fire she would have spurned and despised him, but nothing unites the factions of men like a fight against a common elemental enemy. Besides, there was the question, How did the fire start? That was a question every Landson man would be asking. Grant had been generous about it; he had asked her to be equally generous about the episode of the stalks. . . . And there was something about the man that appealed to her. She had never felt that way about Transley or Linder. She had been interested in them; amused, perhaps; out for an adventure, perhaps; but this man—Nonsense! It was the environment—the romantic setting. As for Drak—A quick sense of horror caught her as the memory of his choking face protruded into her consciousness.

"Well, suppose we ride home," he suggested. "By jove! The fire has worked around us."

It was true. The hill on which they stood was now entirely surrounded by a ring of fire, eating slowly up the side. The warmth of its breath already pressed against their faces; the funnel effect created by the circle of fire was whipping up a stronger draught. The smoke seemed to be gathering to a center above them.

He swung up close to her. "Will your horse face it?" he asked. "If not, we'd better blindfold him."

"I'll try him," she said. "He was all right this afternoon, but he was reckless then with a hard gallop."

Zen's horse trotted forward at her urging to within a dozen yards of the circle of fire. Then he stopped, snorting and snuffing. She rode back up the hill.

"Better blindfold him," Grant advised, pulling off his leather coat. "A sleeve of my shirt should be about right. Will you cut it off?"

She protested. "There's no time to lose," he reminded her, as he placed his knife in her hand. "My horse will go through it all right."

So urged she deftly cut off his sleeve above the elbow and drew it through the bridle of her horse across his eyes.

"Now keep your head down close to his neck. You'll go through all right. Give him the spurs, and good luck!" he shouted.

She was already careering down the hillside. A few paces from the fire the horse plunged into a badger hole and fell headlong. She went over his head, dazed, with a terrific shock, in the very teeth of the fire.

WALLACE GIVES CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING RULES

Secretary of Agriculture Defines Ten Principles Essential to Success for Bank Association.

Ten principles requisite for the success of co-operative marketing plans have been prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for the State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association, which has just published a nation-wide compilation of views, experiences and discussions regarding the movement. Mr. Wallace's principles are:

1. A co-operative organization must be controlled by its members, not as shareholders or investors, but as producers employing the facilities of the organization.

2. A co-operative association is not operated to make a profit on invested capital above the usual rate of interest, but to profitably market the products of its members at the lowest possible cost.

3. A co-operative association should be organized around a single commodity, or a group of commodities for which the same marketing machinery, methods and channels are employed.

4. The organization should have sufficient volume of business to enable it to operate efficiently and economically, and should control this business through definite legal contracts with its members.

5. The organization must perform definite functions. The organization of a co-operative marketing association is not an end in itself.

6. The members must understand the purposes of the organization and be kept fully informed regarding its activities and problems.

7. A co-operative association should have expert management. The duties of the manager of a co-operative association are more difficult than those of the manager of a commercial enterprise of equal size. The manager must not only conduct the business of the organization efficiently, but he must recognize the close, personal interest of every member in that business, and be able to maintain harmonious contacts with each individual.

8. Proper accounting is essential. Accounting is one phase of management but is so important in co-operative marketing that it is given special mention. The management cannot be properly advised regarding the status of the organization, nor properly inform the members, without accurate records.

9. Sound financial policies are also a part of management, but are of sufficient importance to be placed under a separate heading. One essential is that a co-operative association should build up adequate reserves in order that it may have the financial strength necessary to weather periods of stress.

10. A co-operative organization should be self-perpetuating. It should have a definite legal status, and once it is organized it should be so conducted that it would never be necessary to call upon outside agencies to re-establish the organization or shape its policies.

The Church on the Hill

10 a. m.—The Church School. Some folks get religion like the measles—in certain seasons. Righteousness must go on in the summer time, and the church school must help by teaching it.

11 a. m.—Morning Worship. Memorial day means much to our country—the truest meaning is in the way we live—as those who died—thinking of others.

Sermon "America for Americans". This is the slogan of the Ku Klux Klan—let us interpret its meaning.

5:30 p. m.—Young People's hour.

7:30 p. m.—Evening Worship. Our evening services have been increasing in importance. In February the average attendance was 13, in March 20, in April 31, in May the attendance is going up, also. As the summer approaches the larger program begins.

On Tuesday evening, May 27, the LaSalle Male quartette will render a fine concert—this is the third of the concert series—the quality of these entertainments needs no recommendation. Lake Villa audiences are familiar with the value of our program. At Barnstable hall at 7:30 p. m. A good comedy in moving pictures will open the hour.

On Friday night May 30, the monthly Church Night will be held at the church. Bring something to eat and a picnic supper will be arranged. Five classes will meet for work in the task of an intelligent Christianity and two reels of moving pictures will follow. A collection of four dollars will be necessary for the pictures. Don't send the children alone, but come with them—this is a family night.

GURNEE NEWS

The false work has all been removed. Mrs. Mary Chittenden has returned from her visit to her daughter, Mrs. Blanch Cull, of New York.

Mr. M. Welch has returned from the hospital very much improved by an operation a few weeks ago.

Hobart D. Amstutz, pastor of the church, now being held in the Woodman hall, was seen Saturday with his Sunday School class cleaning up around the new church edifice. Dean Ray, Frank Steadman, William Flood, Shelburne Flood, Laverne Dixon, Elmer Russell, Melvin Hook, Robert Panzer, Kenneth Zimmerman and Allan Smith were amongst the busy and efficient workers. Still there's room for more.

It is said that wedding bells will soon be ringing in Gurnee again. But at present the names of the happy people must be omitted. However, the bells, horns, guns and tin pans did ring for the celebration of the marriage of Mrs. Arden Sneeshy to James Sneeshy Sr., one evening last week, and a very enjoyable time was had by all present. So they say!

On Monday night of last week some unprincipled miscreant broke into locked tool house, at the Warren cemetery, and stole a gasoline driven lawn mower that cost the Association $270 and also took along a hand driven mower. We hope he may have to use the latter in some place of reform till the bad blood is sweat out of him.

Lloyd Benwell planted corn one day last week and cultivated it with a tractor driven cultivator next day. Some speed that. Brown & Chittenden were showing a new type of tractor that is different.

Last Sunday at church service young Mr. Hedler and sister rendered a beautiful duet that was much appreciated by the audience, with Mrs. Verna McClure as accompanist.

The past few days H. D. Hughes was seen hauling fertilizer from E. M. Metcalf's cow barn to dress his orchard trees. Some different from loafing around in Florida sunshine.

I'll say it is, but you never can tell. Material for road construction is being drawn from the siding at Chittenden by way of Gurnee, to be used on the Milwaukee road north of Grand avenue, which is now closed to traffic. They were going by way of the Macaree road, but for some cause unknown to the writer were stopped in that direction.

Mrs. Inez Ames is reported as improving satisfactorily after her recent operation for appendicitis at the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan.

Dr. H. O. B. Young and wife started for Nebraska last Friday, being delayed by starting by weather conditions.

THE LOGICAL MERIUM

Live merchants advertise because they want the people to know about the goods they have for sale, especially when bargains are offered.

People read the advertisements because they want to know what they can buy to best advantage and this can be determined only by knowing what the merchants have to offer.

The local paper is the logical medium between buyer and seller. It is the means whereby the merchant talks to his customers. He can't call on them individually so he speaks to them collectively.

The one should use it and the other should read it.

Gray wouldn't take "no" for an answer

"Sorry, old man. I wouldn't have time to change my clothes—"

"Aw, listen!" growled Gray. He pulled Davidson over to a mirror. "Now! Look at yourself. Is there any real reason why you should change that suit?"

And Davidson, grinning, had to admit there wasn't.

"Chicago" Means Skunk, Says Zion Indian

Chicago, like Nlaevoh, had better humble herself in the dust! Her gold coast, her Michigan avenue, Jackson boulevard and all the aristocratic suburbs had better get down in sack-cloth and ashes, because the real meaning of the Indian name 'Chicago' has been discovered. For a long time, Chicagoans have tried to believe that 'Chicago' had something to do with an onion, and, at all events everybody that knew anything knew that the name Chicago had something to do with a "heap of smell."

But "Chicago" means worse yet! Those who put on airs when they say they came from Chicago, might just as well know the truth, for Chicago in plain Indian language means "skunk."

Of all the despised creatures in the animal kingdom the skunk is perhaps the most looked down upon but there is no use calling an onion a lilac, or limber cheese, an angel cake and so Chicago means pure and simple "skunk."

Chief Petoskey of Zion, halls from Petoskey, Michigan, and he is Chief of the Ottawa tribe. "Chicago" he says, is just a corruption of the Indian word "Chicagong," and "Chicagong" in Indian means a skunk. Chicago, says Chief Petoskey, first got the name "Chicagong" from away back when the Chicago river was mostly marsh and mudflat. Chief Ignatius Petoskey, grandfather of the present chief, used to tell how Chicagong got its name. In among the rushes in the swamp land of the Chicagong river, there laid a skunk for many days. In that location (somewhere about where Rush street bridge now stands) the odor was so bad that the Indians called it "Chicagong," which means skunk. The name stuck to the location, and the Indians of the Chippewa and Ottawa tribes of northern Michigan used to winter where Chicago now stands when they would be asked by their friends when they returned in the spring: "Where did you winter?"

"Chicagong," would be the answer. For ten miles around the settlement it used to be called Chicagong.

According to Chief Petoskey, in the early days of Chicagong, the prairie and swamp where the city now stands used to be the habitation of wild turkeys and prairie chickens. The Indians used to shoot them with bow and arrow. Chicago was then an Indian settlement with a little creek and boggy land with rushes. The Indians used the birch bark canoes and dugouts. The water was only about a foot and a half deep, and very muddy and boggy.

The word "Chicago," according to Chief Petoskey, doesn't mean "onion," "wild onion," garlic, or any other kind of despised vegetable. It means "skunk," which is English for the Indian name "Chicagong"; and it got that name because there was a skunk drowned in the Chicago river, or killed and thrown in. Now will you be good?

Too Moderate.

A London student of the servant problem says that cooks would be better pleased if they were called "Miss." Why not "My Lady?"

The Provocative Calfur.

Last Monday evening, at the home of the bride's friends, Mr. and Mrs. John White, occurred the marriage of Miss Roberta Wilton and Mr. Hubert White. As the strains of Lohengren's wedding march were heard, the bridal party took its place beneath a beautiful arch way in the living room, where the Hon. Dr. William White, spoke the impressive words that united the bridal couple in the holy state of matrimony. The bride was attired in a gown of peach colored satin, of the latest Parisian model, with a wonderful veil of Point d'Esprit lace and carried a huge bouquet of sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Elmeretta Hunter, as bridesmaid, who wore a handsome gown of imported green crepe and carried pink roses. The groom wore a snappy suit of gray and was attended by Mr. Dabe Dibble.

"ENEMIES OF WOMEN" AT CRYSTAL FOR TWO DAYS

Lionel Barrymore as "Prince Michael Lubinoff," presents the most vivid and impressive piece of acting he has ever contributed to the silver sheet. He sounds a depth never reached before, and a height that his most ardent admirers never dreamed of. Through his famed social affairs, this blase nobleman became the idol of all the noted pleasure-seeking women of Europe—but of all his lady admirers, he loved only one—and this one he could not win, and because of this disappointed love, he formed a society with three friends called "The Enemies of Women," banishing forever the female sex.

In this picture, Barrymore has one of the most active roles of his career—The thrilling sword duel, and the hand-to-hand encounter with the Bolshevik are spectacular scenes worth going miles to see.

The Fox Lake Bus Line of Fox Lake, Incorporated Friday at Springfield to operate a motor bus line. The capital stock is $50,000, of which the following has been subscribed and paid in: J. L. Flakelstein of Chicago, $10,000; E. S. Burd of Fox Lake, $5,000; and J. L. Walker of Joliet, $100.00.

The company announces a plan of transporting passengers and baggage between Waukegan and Fox Lake.

Representatives of the company appeared before the Waukegan commission Monday night of last week and petitioned for the right to operate its busses over Grand avenue. The petition was placed on file but no action was taken.

The company recently filed an application with the Illinois Commerce commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate its busses over the Waukegan-Fox Lake route. The commission refused to act on the matter at that time because no incorporation papers had been taken out. Now that the concern has incorporated it is probable that a hearing will be had before the commission shortly on the matter of granting the certificate.

The theory that a woman cannot keep a secret was exploded when Miss Eva Ender and Elmer Anderson sent out invitations a week ago announcing a wedding celebration at Soc. Center hall Saturday evening, May 17. The following week proved to be a guess week in Trevor. Some thought they would be married that evening others guessed they would be married elsewhere during the day and others surmised they were already married. During Saturday evening they announced they were married in Waukegan, Aug. 5, 1923. Miss Ender's home is in the northern part of the state. On Friday she completed the second year of teaching in the primary room of the Trevor school. During her stay in Trevor she has made many friends. Mr. Anderson's home is in Racine where he has employment. The hall was beautifully decorated in white and gold. Dancing was indulged in till a late hour. A dainty lunch was served. They received many beautiful and expensive gifts. They will reside in Racine. The best wishes of a host of friends go with them. They left Monday morning to visit relatives at LaCrosse, Wis.

Why the Neighbors Left Town

Think twice, kind readers, before you decide upon a career as an embryo saxophone player in a jazz orchestra. Look what you might be called upon to expand your lungs on this eighteen and one-half foot high instrument you see pictured above. One blow and your director would be running for a pulmotor.

But hold—there we go getting jocular when we only meant to tell you what this is all about. The big "moaner" which you see the men handling in this picture has the reputation of being "the largest saxophone in captivity." It weighs 500 pounds and was made by a San Francisco manufacturer for exhibition and advertising purposes. Two men worked two weeks continually before completing it.

They tell us this same manufacturer also intends to make sundry other orchestra instruments—on the same gigantic scale. At that rate, the bass drum ought to resemble a gas reservoir and the tuba might be similar to giant "horn of plenty."

Candidates for the orchestra will form on the right.

Miss Lillian Schumacher returned home Saturday after a week's visit

"Sun Up" at LaSalle Theatre Proves Big Hit

The best of the year—that was the verdict of all the Chicago reviewers in commenting on "Sun Up" with Lucille LaVerne now at LaSalle theatre. Now before, this season, has there been such unanimous agreement among the writers about the theatre as to the fine quality of an entertainment. One and all, scanned with careful attention, reveal an impression that "Sun Up" is exceptional fine drama, marvelously acted, and something that any one who enjoys the theatre cannot afford to miss.

The story of "Sun Up" has to do with the people of the mountains of North Carolina. There isolated from all the world they live their lives among themselves, raising their crops, fighting their feuds and making their "corn bicker." The Great War comes and the Law reaches out and takes from his surroundings the son of Widow Cagle. The reaction of this fine old mountain woman to this situation, and to the subsequent events is a thrilling, absorbing and intensely vital story.

As the Widow Cagle credit is given Lucille LaVerne for some of the finest acting seen in this generation. She is genuine, true to type, and always dominating in her great strength. It is a stage portrait that will always live in the memory of those who see it. The supporting company gives Miss LaVerne a background of acting which is said to be exceptionally fine. In that every character is perfectly portrayed. "Sun Up" is one of those treats which come all too rarely in the course of a theatrical year.

ON THE WRONG SIDE

Young Jack was talking to the new visitor soon after her arrival. He eyed her critically for a few moments then looked up and said:

"So you're my grandmother, are you?"

"Yes, dear. On your father's side," remarked the old lady smiling.

"Well, you're on the wrong side; you'll find that out," replied Jack.

WHEN FARMING IS BUSINESS-LIKE

By BURTON M. SMITH

Chairman, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

The farmer is a business man and as such should do business on a business basis. Like other business men, he needs financing.

He should be able to secure loans on a similar basis as all other business men, and on conditions that will meet his needs.

On the other hand, the farmer should comply with the same conditions that are exacted from any business man. He should show the banker that the loan is for productive purposes. The farmer ought not to object to a request for a credit statement from his banker when negotiating a loan. This statement is not difficult to prepare when the farmer keeps records. The farmer who does not keep records is not doing business in a business-like way and is not entitled to the same consideration as the man who does.

For instance, loans to farmers for the purchase of well selected high-grade livestock constitute one of the most effective ways of financing the farmer and helping him to make a financial success of his business. In making these loans, the banker can well inquire as to whether the farmer has adequate housing facilities and plenty of the right kind of feeds before the investment is made.

If the banker is to encourage farmers in investments of this kind, he should have a hand in protecting these investments. It is to the advantage of the farmer as well as the banker to carry insurance on buildings, including fire and lightning, and if need be, tornado. Too much attention cannot be given to the health of animals. Neither the banker nor the farmer is justified in making an investment in dairy cows that have not been carefully tested for tuberculosis.

Work It Out Together

Financing the farmer should be the result of teamwork. The banker and the farmer should consider each other as confidential advisers. The farmer needs to know the dangers attached to investments, and the banker needs more information on the possibilities of returns on farm investments well placed. No right-minded farmer ought to object to a careful diagnosis of conditions before the loan is negotiated. Both parties are interested in having the proposed investment pay the interest and eventually the principal, and also return a profit to the farmer.

There are times when the banker ought loan to the farmer to the detriment of the farmer himself. The farmer who was kept from making a heavy investment in land when land values were at their peak is today blessing the banker for heading him away from what would have resulted in serious loss, if not bankruptcy.

Financing the farmer is a job that requires clear thinking and sound judgment. The underlying principles of a profitable loan or investment need to be carefully considered by all parties interested. Two heads are better than one, and when two or more men get together in sympathetic contact, determined to weigh the various possibilities of success and failure, and then act upon their united judgment, then the farmer is well insured.

Studebaker Entry Clips Fast Pace at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind.,—Earl Cooper, in his new Studebaker Special, is giving the railbirds at the speedway a thrill these days in the early speed trials for the annual International 500-mile race, May 30.

Cracking off five laps at an average speed of 100.3 miles an hour in his first try-out, Cooper demonstrated what a clean pair of heels the little Studebaker Special has, when Mayor Lew Shank headed a delegation welcoming the veteran driver.

This was the first time, in recent years, that Indianapolis has given a municipal reception to an arriving speedway contestant. The occasion was in honor of Studebaker.

For it is the first time that the Studebaker corporation's house flag will flutter from the track pits, when the thirty-one speed busses scuffle across the line at 10 o'clock on the morning of the great annual gasoline derby.

"The city is yours," said Mayor Shank, when he officially welcomed Cooper. "From all indications this 1924 race will eclipse them all. Every day I am receiving word that motor caravans are setting out from every corner of the country to arrive in Indianapolis in time for the race. I hope you win. We have to keep the first prize in Indiana."

The mayor was alluding to the fact that Studebaker for 72 years has been located in Indiana.

Automobile racing vets, who are practically living out at the Speedway these days, are carefully clocking the Studebaker Special, for the chatter is that the newest entry has a fine chance to annex first money.

For one thing, the car is in mighty healthy shape, flying over the bricks with the characteristic "cool" that delights Earl Cooper, seasoned veteran of fourteen years on the fastest tracks in the country.

Newspaper men note Cooper's thoughtful, studious, intense mood out at the track. He spends fourteen hours a day with that Studebaker Special, bringing out every possible bit of energy and power.

There is a grim smile on his face as he whirrs past the impromptu checkers near the repair pits. Around and around he goes, testing, spurring, experimenting, hitting up to fast or and faster lap performances.

Nursing the Studebaker Special is Earl Cooper's faithful mechanic, Reeves Dutton, widely known for years on the tracks as a shrewd trainer and driver of racing cars. Dutton spends all of his time "tuning up" the Studebaker and you'll see the lights burning in his little shop in the paddock most every night.

The car is painted robin egg blue. It bears in gold the numeral "1", because Cooper was the first entry signed up for the 1924 Speedway classic.

Cooper was the winner of the Fresno race in 1919, after two years' retirement into the world of business. He was second in the July 4 race in Kansas City last year, and second in the Beverly Hills meet in 1922. He also finished fourth in the 1915 race at the Indianapolis Speedway, besides winning the road championship in California in 1914.

TELLS BANKERS TO ADVERTISE

There is no greater medium of education to our daily life than the newspaper, and, of all mediums offered for bank advertising, the columns of the newspapers reach the innermost circles of our population in the most widespread manner. Motley H. Flint, Los Angeles banker, told the conference of the Savings Bank Division, American Bankers Association, held there recently.

"Advertising, one of man's modern selling forces, has found a fixed place in the banking field," Mr. Flint said. "This, too, in the face of dire predictions of many old-time bankers, who once ridiculed the idea that advertising could be applied to the selling of a service so intangible as that offered by banking institutions. The time was that a bank was satisfied with publishing its statement of condition. That day has been relegated to the past."

"There has been a gratifying response on the part of the public in this new appeal. From it has grown a better understanding by our people of banks and their functions. Where a bank account formerly was the exception it is now the rule. Surely this can be attributed principally to the fact that bankers have come out of their shells and, through advertising, have induced people generally to come into their institutions and learn more about the beneficial services banks have to offer. This can be shown in no better way than by the marvelous growth in savings accounts."

"Applauding sums are being hoarded annually in bank and financial advertising. I say 'invested' advisedly. It is not merely being spent; it is invested. It is invested for various reasons, and not the least of these is for the purpose of keeping the name of our banks before the people, as recommended by a bit of bank education."

The Creed of Jesus

Will you please read over Matthew 5: 31-40 and find out just what Jesus has to say about the test of the God-like life. We have put the end before the beginning, by stating the principle to start with.

Jesus did not say a word about the necessity for believing this or that in order to get to a place near the Father throughout eternity. No intellectual assent to a formal creed. Jesus' only creed was "Love." He stated it in many ways. "Love God and Love your fellow men." But if people could only have thought straight enough, the second injunction would not have been needed; for if we love God, we will love all of His children. And in this final test of life we see Jesus' creed, as it was put into practice, in the lives of those who love. They ministered to those in need, because they loved them.

Isn't that simple? It is simple that many people can not see it. They are looking for something complicated. The church fathers filled the bill for them, for they evolved out of their speculative minds creeds so intricate that scarcely any two people think the same about some of the tests of those creeds. Those creeds have been the cause of most of the divisions in the Christian church. We have over 100 Christian denominations or sects instead of one, because men's creeds have pushed Jesus' creed into the background.

The occidental mind has always found difficulty in understanding the mind of the Oriental. We may class the Hebrews, or Jews, of whom Jesus was one, as Orientals. Their whole literature shows the evidence of the way their minds worked. They were figurative in speech, picturesquely in thought. We Westerners have gone at a study of Jesus' teaching in some thing of the following manner. We have said to ourselves, "now if I were starting a religion, I would hand down a logical system of ethical teachings, which would include statements under the following logical headings, God immortality, sin, family life, neighborly acts, political life, etc. So we have set down the headings, more or less of them, and have dug around in the gospels and have dragged out teachings, out of their proper content to come under our headings, and so bear out our theory. But the efforts have not been very successful.

I have had the opportunity of studying the New Testament under professors who used a different method. They have no theories which need to be defended. They simply want to learn what the scriptures teach. So we have gone back two thousand years, and studied the times of Jesus his contemporary literature. His native background, and then have studied the scriptures to tell Jesus say anything He wants to say, and I have come to this conclusion: Jesus did not try, any more than any other oriental, to found a system. He saw the significance of life, and he understood God, as I believe the student of history will be bound to admit, no other ever did. He saw that "God is Love". John understood the mind of the master when he summed it all up in John 3:16, "God so loved the world," etc. To Jesus, the only religion was a life lived like God's life—a life full of love. In Matt. 5: 43-45 Jesus states it in a stronger way "Love your enemies."

He says to begin with "Love is God. Love is life. Love is every thing," then he took every occasion to illustrate it. Did the disciples push the little children away? That was an unlovely act. Did those men want to kill the woman taken in sin? That was not the way to change her into a good woman. Love, and only love could do that. Did anyone need help? He would help them and so illustrate his one life principle—Love. You may build a sort of a system out of Jesus' teachings, but when you are through, you'll have something which Jesus would scarcely recognize, and you will be a long way from understanding him who came to reveal God as love.

Did the mob come to take Jesus and kill him? He would give the world its supreme illustration of love. He could not fight back for that would abrogate his principle of love. By fighting back, he might save his life, but he would have to give up his ideal. By giving up, he could lose his life, and in the very process of losing it, he would conquer the hearts of those hardened against life, and against everything but love. When he died praying for his murderers, blessing instead of cursing, they said "surely this was the son of God." Why? Because he was like God. Please don't tell me that people will not like this view of the creed of Jesus; because I know it. It is so much easier to hold the view that we must subscribe to some intricate creedal statement, than to accept the fact that we must love everyone. It is very hard to love everyone. But Jesus said, "you must love the un-lovely as God does, who gives His blessings to the just and the unjust, the lovely and the unlovely." Love is the mystery of God, and of life. If we had love we could overcome all evil. Hatred cannot be conquered by hatred, but love can defeat and disarm it. God's love will break the will of the worst criminal, if we can help him to understand it, while the strong arm of the law only hardens him. If God's children would only love each other, the Kingdom of Heaven would be here on earth.

When one sees the simplicity and the eternity in Jesus' creed, life means so much more, and God seems so much nearer. Arthur B. Rhinow has expressed the idea well, in a dialogue called "Essentials".

Youth—Is this your great work on the Essentials of Faith?

Old Man—No; over there in the shadows. I must turn on the light. Youth—I see. A case of five shelves. Looks like a pyramid. Funny.

Old Man—These six volumes on the lowest shelf are my first "Essentials." I was a young man then.

Youth—Massive.

Old Man—On the next shelf is my first revision.

Youth—Only four volumes.

Old Man—Only four. I revised it after my boy died. Excuse me.

Youth—I had better leave.

Old Man—Stay please. Few come to see me now. I am old. These three volumes on the third shelf are another revision. That was after—oh, I never told of it, and I shall not tell now. It was a terrible struggle, but I learned to pray.

Youth—And the two volumes on the next shelf?

Old Man—Another revision, after the war.

Youth—And the little volume on the top shelf?

Old Man—(fondles the book)—My last Essentials. When she died. You know—I saw things whole as never before.

Youth—Whole?

Old Man—Yes. He is my Father, and I am His child.

Youth—And you want to go home?

Old Man—I am home.

Life is like that when the revelation of Jesus is seen by man. Life simplifies and intensifies. Love is enough. Love is all. God helps us to live by the creed of Jesus.

E. LESTER STANTON.

URGES QUART OF MILK A DAY FOR EVERY PERSON

After long experience, wide observation and extended, diligent study, Dr. Haven Emerson, former health commissioner of New York City, states that present information as to cost and value makes it quite clear that an entire community would save expense and serve their nutritional needs best if as much as one quart of whole milk were used as food for each member of the population daily. This authority adds: "Unless at least a pint a day per person is used in a community, waste of income and serious nutritional errors are certain to develop and affect the vitality, sturdiness and capacity to resist disease of a large number of both children and adults."

AN HONEST JURYMAN

"Look here," said a young juryman after the jury had retired, "if I understand aright, the plaintiff doesn't ask damages for blighted affections or anything of that sort, but only wants his presents back."

"That is so," agreed the foreman.

"Well, then, I vote we don't give him a cent," said the young juryman hastily. "If all the fun he had with that girl didn't cover the amount the presents cost him, it was his own fault. Gentlemen, I courted that girl once myself!"

Oil King's Golf Partner

The elderly gentleman pictured above needs no introduction. Everyone in Florida and in many other parts of the country, too, knows him as the famous civil war veteran, General Adalbert Ames. But better still as the inseparable golf companion of John D. Rockefeller for the last twenty years. This photograph was the first ever made of him at his Ormond Beach, (Fla.) home.

General Ames, it is said, is a genuine, dyed-in-the-wool golf enthusiast. Last year, and again this season, he issued a challenge for a 36 hole match to any man of his age. As yet, however, he has been unsuccessful in getting an answer to his challenge.

MANY OUT OF WORK IS

WAUKEGAN C OF C REPORT

Jobs have become exceedingly scarce in Waukegan during the past months, according to reports from the employment bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

There is an abundance of laborers in the city, many from out-of-town, who are unable to locate work. It is understood that the Manville plant has been operating on a five day week plan in some departments and that other factories are laying off help.

Clerks are not needed, according to the heads of the bureau, and stenographic help is plentiful.

There is a big demand for domestic help. People from as far south as Chicago write the Chamber of Commerce in search of maids and general domestic help.

With the closing of schools in June Secretary Clifford anticipates more trouble through the fact that several hundred young men will be in the market for employment.

Business Shows Growth

IN the first three months of 1924, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois installed 4,635 electric meters as compared with 3,994, in the corresponding period in 1923.

Each meter not only indicates a new home or industrial customer for the Company, but, in the greater number of instances, these new meters mean new residences, factories or stores in the territory. Installation of gas meters showed a proportionate increase.

This Company now provides more than 252,000 customers with electric light and power or gas services.

Mrs. Harry McDougall, the president of the local Parent Teacher's association was a delegate from here to the State P. T. A. meeting at Oconomowoc. She went with Mrs. John John Gaggin of Liberty Corners, Mrs. George Patrick, Trevor and Mrs. Bloss of Salem, others who represented associations in the neighboring towns. The delegation drove up on Wednesday of last week and returned on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Richards and daughters of Chicago motored up for the day on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Beck.

R. C. Shottliff was in Milwaukee on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reynolds were in Kenosha Sunday.

Mrs. R. Hienfeldt spent Wednesday in Milwaukee.

Services at the M. E. church will be at eight o'clock Sunday evening from now on instead of seven thirty.

Mrs. Mary Carey, Walter and Evelyn Carey of Melleny and George Phalen, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., were entertained at the Walter Carey home Thursday evening.

The supper given by the ladies of the M. E. Aid on last Thursday evening was largely attended and a big success. The ladies cleared nearly $50.00. The United States National banking office force of Kenosha came out for the supper to a body as well as several prominent business men from that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Mathews of Antioch were Sunday guests at the Boulden home.

Mrs. Stallman was in Milwaukee the last of the week visiting relatives.

Mrs. Epping and son Reginald spent Thursday in Chicago.

Rose and Katie Rush were quite seriously injured when the car they were driving Sunday afternoon was overturned near Powers Lake. Miss Rose Rush, who was at the wheel, succeeded in getting the machine back on the road the first time it swerved into the ditch, but the breaking of a rear wheel overturned the car and caught the girls under it.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruckman and Dale and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bufton were in Kenosha Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Linch of Kenosha spent Sunday at the Edward Murphys. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seegar of Kenosha were there Thursday.

Mr. Kuehner, horticultural man from the agricultural department at Madison, held a tree spraying demonstration for the agricultural classes at the high school in the Koppiach orchard Friday afternoon. A great many of the boys are putting their knowledge to practical use in their home orchards. The class has had several pruning demonstrations this year.

The alumni of the U. F. H. school and their guests are looking forward to the annual banquet, reception and dance for the graduates of 1924, to be held at the gymnasium Saturday evening, May 24th.

The hall was prettily decorated for the Junior prom and the same decorations are to be used for the annual. The president, Fred Hannemann, of Milwaukee, assisted by the local officers of the association, Irving Carey, Mrs. Martin Bruhman and Clarence Wright, have been making many plans to make this gathering the best ever.

Miss Crane of Brass Ball has been secured for readings, and Alfred Reschke for violin selection. Former graduates will be pleased to learn that Earle M. Darby of the class of 1910 has been secured as toastmaster. Mr. Darby is a ready speaker and has always been well received. The banquet is to be served by Miss Post of the domestic science department, assisted by the freshmen and sophomore girls. It will be served at 7:30. James Carey spent several days in Chicago last week.

The meeting of the local Patron-Teachers association held at the high school last Tuesday evening was well attended. The program featured Mr. Sanders principal of the Racine schools, who gave a splendid address. Readings by Lucille Grazen of Kenosha and viola solos by Alfred Reschke proved very popular. The community singing was led by Miss Hope. The luncheon was served by Mrs. John Gauger, assisted by Mrs. J. Hanson.

The mighty Bill Edgar and his State Line teammates stopped on the Since Blues of Kenosha 9 to 1, on Sunday, May 11, in the opening game of the season at the park. While the visitors at times showed some fast individual work, they were completely out-classed in every department of the game and the victory was a very easy one for the State Line speed boys.

The last church night of the season was held last Thursday evening and was well attended and everyone seemed to enjoy the fellowship of each other and a very pleasant evening was spent. The program of the evening commenced at 7:30 with a short devotional service, then classes for everyone, after which we enjoyed a program put on by the entertainment committee, which was exceptionally good. Refreshments were served in the basement of the church.

Walter Repkow, a state highway motorcycle policeman, had his right leg broken last Wednesday evening when he was sandwiched in between two automobiles on West Washington street on his way home from work.

Frank Reardon, who patrols with Repkow, stated that the accident appeared to be purely accidental and that no arrests had been made.

The two motor cops were on their way home. Repkow was in the lead. About a half a mile from the city limits, while Repkow was following in the wake of an automobile he was struck by a machine driven by John Conway of Chicago that swung out to pass the motorcycle.

The hubcap of the rear wheel struck the motorcycle, spilling Repkow and breaking his leg.

Conway halted immediately. Both he and Repkow had believed there was ample room to pass, according to Reardon. The victim was removed to the Victory Memorial hospital.

This is the second motorcycle accident in a few days. A week ago Saturday evening Ambrose Beaudien, a deputy sheriff, was injured while riding in the county. He suffered a broken leg.

Repkow lives at 226 Stewart ave., Waukegan. He was appointed to the highway patrol more than a year ago by Gov. Small.
